Employment and Training Administration
April 1983

Area Trends in Employment and Unemployment provides information on labor surplus areas as classified by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The purpose in classifying labor surplus areas is to put the Federal Government's procurement contracts into areas of high unemployment. Employers located in these labor surplus areas are eligible for preference in bidding on Federal contracts.

Questions concerning the labor surplus area classifications may be directed to:

Employers located in labor surplus areas and interested in bidding on Federal contracts should consult the Commerce Business Daily which lists Federal contract requirements and indicates those to be awarded under preference procedures.

The Business Service Centers of the General Services Administration are located throughout the country and can provide additional information concerning Federal contracting opportunities. The locations of these Centers are provided at the end of this publication.

Eligible Labor Surplus Areas for Bidding On Federal Contracts

Background

Employers located in eligible labor surplus areas, as determined by the Department of Labor, and who meet other criteria, are entitled to preference in bidding on Federal procurement contracts.

The purpose of the labor surplus area procurement preference is to help guide a portion of the government's procurement dollars into those areas where people are in most severe economic need, e.g., areas with the highest unemployment.

The concept of targeting Federal procurement into areas of high unemployment dates back to the early 1950's. There was concern among Government officials at the time that high unemployment rates and low utilization of plant and equipment in some areas would lead to erosion of the mobilization base and adversely affect production during the Korean Conflict. There was also concern that the cost of constructing new plants and relocating workers would cause an unnecessary drain on resources.

The Office of Defense Mobilization studied this problem and in February 1952 issued Defense Manpower Policy Number Four (DMP-4), implementing the idea of targeting Federal procurements to labor surplus areas. The program eventually became the responsibility of the Federal Preparedness Agency within the General Services Administration.

The labor surplus area program was largely unsuccessful in producing contract set-asides to employers in such areas because the program lacked a statutory base. This was changed in August 1977 with the enactment of Public Law 95-89 which amended the Small Business Act. Public Law 95-89 authorizes Federal agencies to "set-aside" contracts for competition among firms which agree to perform a substantial portion of the production of the contract in labor surplus areas. Contracts may be set-aside when an agency determines that offers will likely be obtained from a large enough number of eligible firms to permit the awards to be made at reasonable prices.

During the Urban and Regional Policy Group's review of Federal programs in 1977-78, the labor surplus area program was identified as one which had potential for providing relief for distressed areas. In March 1978, the General Services Administration was directed to work with each Federal agency to set targets for labor surplus area contracts, monitor agency performance, and report to the President every 6 months on the progress of each agency. These principles were contained in Executive Order 12073 which was signed on August 16, 1978.

In addition, Executive Order 12073 assigned to the Department of Labor the responsibility for classifying labor surplus areas. This was a continuation of the Labor Department's responsibilities since the inception of the program under DMP-4 in the early 1950's. The Department also has responsibility for classifying such areas under Executive Order 10582 which implements the Buy American Act.

Classification Criteria

Under the Department of Labor's classification procedures, an area is classified as a labor surplus area if the unemployment rate is at least 1.20 times the national unemployment rate during the previous two calendar years.

The procedures also provide for the classification on the basis of exceptional circumstances. Under these procedures, if an area does not meet the criteria necessary for classification as a labor surplus area, the criteria can be waived and the area classified when there has been a sudden rise in the unemployment in the area (other than seasonal or short term) that is not reflected in the area's data for the reference period. Such situations can occur as a result of natural disasters, plant closings of major employers, etc. which have a substantial impact on the area's employment and unemployment. In situations where such exceptional circumstances occur, the area can be classified as a labor surplus area upon petition from the appropriate State employment security agency. The addresses of the State employment security agencies are provided on the inside back cover.

Labor surplus areas are classified on the basis of civil jurisdictions, i.e., counties or county equivalents, as well as all cities with a population of at least 50,000. In 4 States (Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania), townships of 50,000 or more population are also eligible for classification as labor surplus areas. In New England, the labor surplus areas classifications for Maine, New Hampshire, and Vermont are based on county data while in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, where counties have very limited or no government function, the classifications use towns as county equivalents. By classifying labor surplus areas in this way i.e., in terms of civil jurisdictions rather than labor market areas, funds can be directed to specific localities with high unemployment rather than to all jurisdictions in a given metropolitan area, not all of which may suffer from the same degree of unemployment.

The eligibility status of labor surplus areas is determined annually under the classification procedures. The annual listings are effective each June 1 and remain in effect for the following 12 months.

The reference period used in classifying the current list of labor surplus areas was January 1980 through December 1981. The national average unemployment rate during this reference period was 7.5 percent. Areas were included on the annual listing if their average unemployment rate during the reference period was 9.0 or more, i.e., 1.20 times the national rate. The initial list of 1,099 eligible labor surplus areas became effective June 1, 1982, and will remain in effect through May 31, 1983.

Newly Classified Labor Surplus Areas

Effective April 1, 1983, the U.S. Department of Labor added 14 areas to the annual list of labor surplus areas. The newly classified labor surplus areas are as follows:

Georgia: McIntosh County

Illinois: McHenry County

Louisiana: Balance of Calcasieu Parish

North Carolina: Sampson County

Oregon: Wasco County

Rhode Island: Woonsocket City

Texas: Camp County, Cass County, Marion County, Morris County, Upshur County

Utah: Ogden City

Wisconsin: Kewaunee County, Oneida County

As a result of these classifications, there are now 1,360 labor surplus areas. Following is a complete listing of all 1,360 labor surplus areas and the civil jurisdictions included, as of April 1, 1983.
